

I CLAIM:

1. An adjustable fixture for an umbrella comprising a sleeve, a cam handle, and a block incorporated with an inner rod and an outer rod of the umbrella, said inner rod being inserted within said outer rod in a slidable manner, and said outer rod being
5 inserted within said sleeve, and characterized by:
  - said sleeve comprising a connecting wall bossing out from one side of said sleeve and holes on the same side exposing from said connecting wall;
  - said cam handle comprising a cam at one end, said cam being pivotally connected to said connecting wall by a pin;
  - 10 said block being located between said cam of said cam handle and said holes of said sleeve, springs being located between said block and said outer rod, said block being urged by said springs towards said cam of said cam handle; said cam handle controlling said cam to urge said block to tighten said inner rod in a secure position.

15